

Sexuality education programs that exclusively promote abstinence do not adequately prepare Kenyan adolescents to lead healthy sexual and reproductive lives.

Yet three-fourths of sampled students aged 15-17 were told to avoid sex before marriage and that sex is dangerous for young people.

